PRESIDENT
JAQUESS

Dedicated TO OUR PAST

To our leaders of the past who devoted themselves to the building of our own MacMurray, we dedicate this record of our efforts in furthering their endeavors.

PRESIDENT
C. P. McCLELLAND

AND PRESENT LEADERS . . .

To those who are now directing the growth of our college, and upon whom rest the responsibilities of continuing its development, we present this book as a symbol of our loyalty.

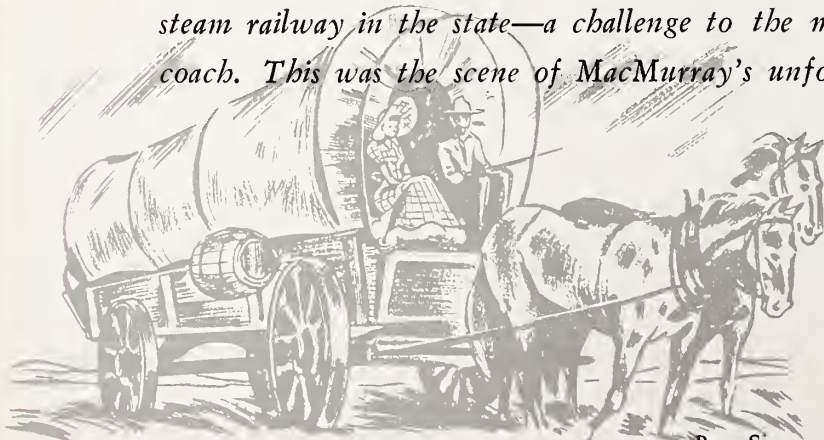

Just One Hundred Years Ago

The Reverend Peter Akers had a vision — a vision of young women, educated, refined, fitted to take their place in the world. Supported by the Illinois Conference of the Methodist Church, this dream found reality. And on October 10, 1846, nine pioneers of Illinois education met to create the Illinois Conference Female Academy, the genesis of our MacMurray.

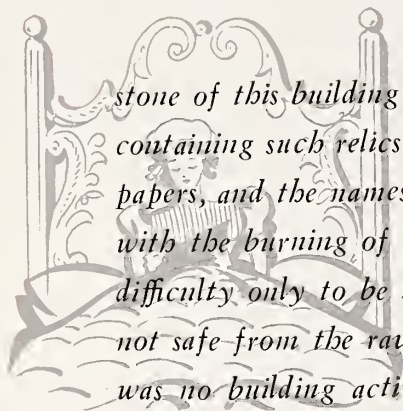

Perhaps the most striking figure among our founding fathers was Peter Cartwright, first president of the Board, a righteous, vigorous man of action who "worked for the Lord and fought the Devil and all his works." He and the other members of this first Board of Trustees met in Jacksonville to unite their varied backgrounds and experiences in a common enterprise.

The town named after Andrew Jackson was but a small pioneer village nestled around its courthouse square. West of town stood the venerable Illinois College. Plans for the state institutions for the blind and the deaf were under way. Serving the two thousand inhabitants were six churches, including the Methodist in which the I.C.F.A. was organized and held first classes. Past the site of the new academy puffed the first steam railway in the state—a challenge to the more conservative but regular stage coach. This was the scene of MacMurray's unfolding drama.

MacMurray is rich not only in its legacy of illustrious founders but also in the character of its courageous presidents. Knotty problems such as the acquisition of property, erection of buildings, growth of the curriculum, and maintenance of academic standards have been the heritage of each. Jaquess, Andrus, McCoy, Adams, DeMotte, Short—were men of strength and faith who piloted the struggling college through its most difficult years, years of fires, financial exigencies, and war. They knew days of discouragement and fading hope. But through their painstaking efforts, the foundations were laid on which Dr. Harker was able to build during his long and successful administration. Now today, in this Centennial year, we are witnesses to the prodigious achievements of our present head, Dr. C. P. McClelland. Dr. "Mac" came to our campus in 1925, bringing with him great plans for a future of achievement. Following closely upon the heels of his arrival, our greatest friend and benefactor of recent times, Mr. MacMurray, became an immortal member of the college heritage, when in 1930 I. W. C. was rechristened MacMurray College.

Through the years new faces may come and go, but a college's buildings remain a lasting memorial to her progress. Dearest to our hearts is Old Main, rich in the dignity of memories and traditions. The present building, headquarters of freshmen and the administration, was erected in 1872 on the ashes of the great fire. During its early years Main was the center of all activity. It is interesting to us, accustomed as we are to an extensive campus, to note the interior arrangement in those days. On the first floor were a gymnasium, recitation rooms, laboratories, the elocution department, kitchen, and dining room. A vestibule, reception room, chapel, library, art studio, two society halls, and offices were located on the main floor. The second floor accommodated resident students and teachers. The third floor was devoted to the College of Music. Old cuts and catalogue descriptions have pictured for us the original college building—four stories high, red brick, massive Corinthian columns in front, crowned with an observation cupola (the delight of presidents' children, it is said). The cornerstone of this building was laid ceremoniously in 1849. In it was deposited a tin box containing such relics as a Bible, a Methodist hymnal, the discipline, church and city papers, and the names of the trustees. A great financial crisis came upon I. C. F. C. with the burning of the west wing in 1861. It was reconstructed again after much difficulty only to be swept away completely in 1870. But even the new building was not safe from the ravages of flame—a third fire occurred in 1872. After this there was no building activity until 1899, the date of extensive improvements upon Old Main. But, as Dr. Harker so often stated, "Contentment with present attainments means retrogression." Accordingly, the history of the college has been punctuated with the erection of more buildings. Music Hall, Harker, Hardtner Gymnasium, MacMurray, McClelland, Jane, Ann Rutledge, and Pfeiffer Library form a chain which will in the future become longer and stronger as MacMurray grows.

The history of a college is also the story of its organizations. MacMurray is proud of her vital service organizations, societies, and publications. Their annals reveal the development of the College Woman.

Perhaps one of the most impressive features of MacMurray life is the Student Government Association. With the purpose of unifying student life and promoting college spirit and loyalty, Dr. Harker took first steps in this direction in 1913. The original College Council was augmented by a temporary form of house government with the co-operation of the faculty. Proving itself worthy of trust, the student body was rewarded in 1914 with a full-fledged student government charter—a great day to those who sought self-reliance, honor, and loyalty in their student relations.

Mac without its Y.W.C.A. would be difficult to visualize. From a tiny nucleus sometimes called an Epworth League, the Y.W. was born in 1899 and by 1902 had made its mark in campus life, eventually to become a part of an international organization. Of its varied and growing services we are perhaps most familiar with its oldest traditions—the annual party for new girls, the Christmas bazaar, and Christmas caroling.

Mirrors of student life are the GREETINGS and ILLIWOCO. Near the time of I.F.C.'s fiftieth commencement in 1897, the first GREETINGS appeared as an alumnae news letter, produced by Dr. Harker and an alumna. Enthusiastically received, the publication continued in this vein until ambitious seniors of 1904-1905 took the reins. Under this new and capable management, the GREETINGS became the organ of campus activity, as it is today. The annual publication produced by the Junior class received its unique and appropriate title, ILLIWOCO, in 1913 and first appeared as a yearbook in 1917.

Our four upperclass literary societies have played an integral and noteworthy part in MacMurray's history. It all began with Belles Lettres, now a veteran of ninety-five years' service to the "cultivation of literary taste." Phi Nu followed in 1853. Tagged by B.L.'s as "Trundle Beds," they dubbed their friendly superiors "The Fossils." Although all records and possessions of the two groups were destroyed in the fire of 1861, they carried on energetically, inspired by the spirited competition of the Illinois College literary societies. Ambitious literary and artistic meetings and exhibitions were held in spite of tragic fires and the struggle for halls in which to meet. The latter campaign continued for several years supported by plays, candy-pulls, sales, and entertainments. By 1912 the college's population had grown so that new societies were needed. Out of this necessity were created Theta Sigma and Lambda Alpha Mu. Twenty representative girls were chosen by the administration as founders and divided into the two equal groups according to a balance of qualities. With the help and encouragement of B.L., Phi Nu, and Dr. Harker, the two infants soon grew up to take their place in the campus world.

The development of the modern college woman in the past century has been marked by a mounting interest in athletics. Our Alma Mater has been no exception. What a great gulf between the hoop-skirted, hoop-tossing young ladies of 1860 and our modern hockey enthusiast! By the turn of the century, the ultra-conservative and very proper dumb-bells and dainty promenades had given way to a well-defined athletic program. Favorite activities were basketball and tennis, both of which stimulated lively competition. Hiking and track also became popular with I.W.C.'s bloomer girls. World War I brought to the college a vigorous new interest in athletics, with emphasis upon physical fitness. Backbone of this enthusiasm, the Athletic Association, founded in 1908, has worked energetically to keep the spirit of good-sportsmanship thriving. In 1945 the A. A. became known as the Recreational Association.

But as these fragments of the past are revealed, our curiosity takes us back to the very beginnings. If an I. C. F. C. girl of the fifties could appear among us again, how surprised she would be! She would hardly believe her eyes when she saw us arrive at our beautiful campus in automobiles or busses, enter our modern dormitories, flick a switch for light or a thermostat for heat, stroll unchaperoned into town, select our studies from a seemingly endless list, engage in a rousing game of hockey, or compete briskly in campus elections. Then she would tell us of her college life.

Arriving in a heavy wagon with her hair covered trunk and perhaps a feather bed roped in behind the seat, she approached the center of her new opportunity with awe. Here she found herself living with two or three other girls in a bare little room.

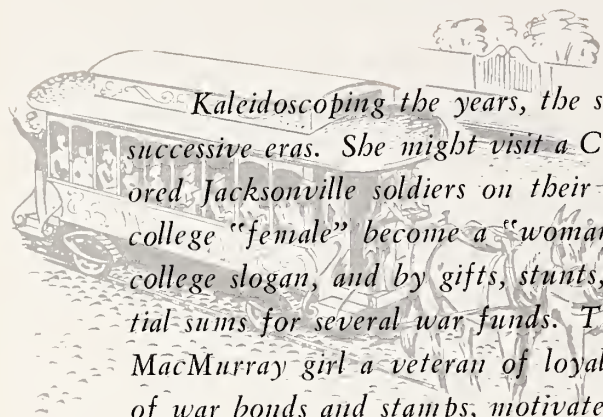

Looking around, she saw the wood stove—that winter morning tyrant — the strip of molding with nails that answered for a closet, the bed with the welcomed storage space beneath, and the table on which was placed one lonely candle.

During the days of her college career she concentrated on her classes in such abstruse subjects as natural philosophy, Butler's Analogy, natural theology, or moral science, with a dash of Latin, botany, geometry, history, domestic economy, and similar courses. Particular attention was of course paid to composition, penmanship, and the art of being decorous young ladies. A full schedule! Then at her candle-lighted table in the evening she endeavored to master the learning of the day.

In the life of a "genteel female" of the fifties there was little place for play. Disgraceful athletic impulses were to be repressed. However, calisthenics with wands and dumb-bells, walking, or perhaps a game of "Poor pussy wants a corner" were considered proper. Indoors, charades and tableaux were popular. Social highlights of the year were the spring picnic and a mid-winter reception, called the President's levee.

The girls of these early years spent nine and a half months of the year under the school's protecting wing. Discipline was parental but strict and each young lady found herself under the close observation of her teachers. These first alumnae would be amazed and perhaps pleased to review the striking though gradual evolution through which our codes of conduct have passed. They would observe the fusion of good sense and consistency with the times which has always existed. And they would applaud the gradual swing of the pendulum toward a balance between the academic and social aspects of campus life. In retrospect they would recall clandestine midnight feasts, unladylike pranks, or a secret tryst, and tragic reprimand that followed; would be proud of the responsible, self-reliant "Mac" girl of today.

Kaleidoscoping the years, the silent spectator watches campus life unroll through successive eras. She might visit a Civil War reception at which I. C. F. C. girls honored Jacksonville soldiers on their way to war. The turn of the century saw the college "female" become a "woman." During World War I, "Let us knit" became a college slogan, and by gifts, stunts, and "self-denying meals" I. W. C. raised substantial sums for several war funds. Today the conclusion of World War II finds the MacMurray girl a veteran of loyal home front service through her purchase and sale of war bonds and stamps, motivated by such goals as the purchase of a bomber and of jeep parts.

The heart of a college lies partly in its traditional celebrations. Founders Day, Thanksgiving, and May Day are MacMurray's heritage. In 1909 Founders Day, October 10, was first commemorated by students, alumnae, and friends. At first, a half-holiday, a lawn picnic, and a speaker of prominence (of whom William Jennings Bryan was one) was the order of the day. But as alumnae increased, a desire was felt for a simple and beautiful custom to bind together friends of the college wherever they might be. This desire was fulfilled through our Candle Lighting Custom, observed on Founders Day and Alumnae Day. Thanksgiving Day has always found a beautiful expression on campus, and, through the years, have evolved our delightful customs of corridor breakfasts, dining hall decorations by the freshmen, and afternoon entertainment. Finally comes the climax of the year's social events — May Day. In 1908, the romance of Spring inspired I. W. C. students to celebrate in the traditional Old English fashion. Elaborate drills, winding dances around the May Pole, and the flower-sprinkled coronation of the Queen attracted nearly a thousand spectators to this colorful event. So successful was it that May Day became a tradition, which succeeding generations have met with variety and ingenuity. Perhaps it is this web of traditions which winds pleasantly about the MacMurray girl, holding her forever close to her Alma Mater.

And so the curtain falls upon the pageant of a century—a hundred years of dreams, success, discouragement, and new-found hope, bound together by the strength and vision of men and women who had faith.

Without dates there could be no histories written. Upon these bright spots in the passing years hang the significance of the little things that might otherwise be forgotten. Let the spotlight flash for a moment upon these MacMurray dates:

1852—Eight girls became alumnae of I. C. F. C.

1899—Thanksgiving introduced our singing grace, "Be present at our table, Lord."

1847-1851—The school was known as the Illinois Conference Female Academy.

1851-1863—Our name was the Illinois Conference Female College.

1863-1899—I. C. F. C. was abbreviated to Illinois Female College.

1899-1930—Our title was Illinois Woman's College.

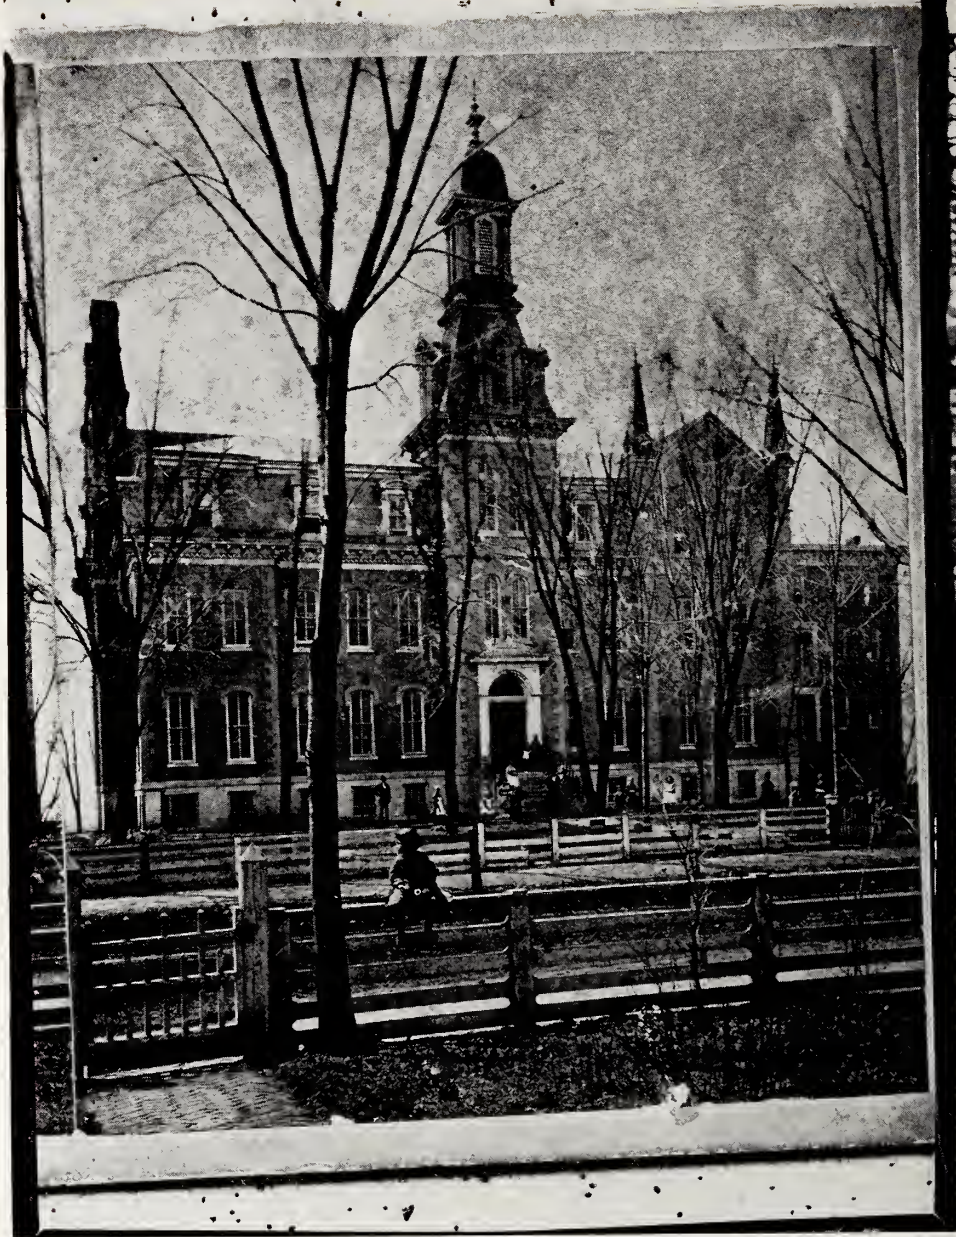

1930—I. W. C. became MacMurray College for Women.

1907—I. W. C. advanced to standard college rank.

1907—The Alma Mater was first sung by the Glee Club as a concert encore.

1910—The college seal was adopted. (Designed by Nellie Knopf).

1916—Mr. MacMurray became a member of the Board of Trustees.

From dusty files and aging scrapbooks have emerged the above glimpses of MacMurray history. Each picture represents a story of its own . . . a little treasure of tradition, gay days, and pleasures shared together. We can present to you here only a few of the interesting shots which our fascinating quest uncovered.

The McClellands

In this our centennial year, we are especially proud of our able President and his gracious wife, Dr. and Mrs. C. P. McClelland. Dr. "Mac" has won our admiration not only as a brilliant administrator, but also as a cordial friend. Throughout the year, Mrs. McClelland opens her home and extends charming hospitality to every student.

OUR DEANS

Wendell S. Dysinger

is the man to whom MacMurray students turn for educational and vocational guidance. As Dean of the College, he offers advice in choosing a vocation and the courses with which to prepare for it.

Roma N. Hawkins

coordinates the social observances and academic work of the college. She serves as director of placement for graduates and is the capable advisor of the Junior class. Dean Hawkins offers kind, sympathetic understanding to all who seek her advice.

Mary E. Baird

serves as director of residence and registrar for the college. She is the helpful advisor of the Sophomore class and everyone recognizes the friendly spirit with which Dean Baird treats any problem taken to her.

Harold E. Gibson

Director of Admissions and advisor for the college publications, the Greetings and the Illiwoco.

Helen M. Sowers

Business Manager is versatile and efficient in the field of management.

THE ADMINISTRATION

E. Clarendon Smith

Business manager on leave of absence serving with the U. S. Navy.

MARY FRAM, ANNE INGRAM AND DOROTHEA DUNBAR.

OUR GRADUATE STUDENTS

Dorothea Dunbar, Anne Ingram, and Mary Fram compose the group of MacMurray graduate students residing on campus. Miss Dunbar, Miss Ingram, and Miss Fram are all candidates for M.S. degrees in physical education.

Annie and Dottie stand by as Mary plays Chopin for them as only Mary can.

Ourselves

"Ob, college dear, we love but thee and will be always true"

SENIOR CLASS

Ending a busy year as the Centennial Class, the seniors "leave from Rutledge Hall" and the campus looks back to review their final year . . . With Lillie Mihara and Eileen Olson as co-chairmen, the traditional weekly breakfasts in the dorm were maintained . . . Wandalee King and Geraldine Rapp led the arrangements for the annual Senior Tea . . . To the strains of Eddy Howard's music and to the theme of "Reflections," Virginia Bliss reigned as Queen of the Senior Ball, in a court established for the evening by Mildred Moss, class president and Ruth Chin, Ball chairman . . . Off to St. Louis for Senior Cut Day, led by Margaret Dennis Johnson . . . Dorothy Stonecipher served as recognition chairman, and Georgiana Buck supervised the weekly Wednesday night coffees in Rutledge lounge . . . Louise Uhl edited the Centennial Directory . . . Joining together at the party given by Mrs. Hawkins and Miss Baird and dining with the McClellands, the class began a busy Commencement Week which ended with the May Dance, Senior Communion, and the final moment when diplomas were their own and they joined to sing of how they had "learned to give and take and think of self a little less . . . thy name we bless."

Continuing with weekly invitations to freshmen to the class coffees, Jean Stevens conducted the informal gatherings in the Jane lounge . . . Shirley Verstegen led the class projects for the Bazaar . . . The class assisted at the pre-Centennial reception held for alumnae and guests early in the fall and helped with pageant plans for Commencement Week . . . Virginia Hinrichsen reigned as Prom Princess in a kingdom of "Fantasy" with her attendants, Harriet Hatch and Mary Lemon . . . Barbara Gerhart, Prom chairman, and class president, Francine Duncan, completed the court . . . The Illiwoco was edited by Merle Hansen with Martha Spink as business manager . . . The year closed with a series of events at which the juniors assisted in graduation activities for the Centennial Class . . . Emmy Lou Jenkins planned the lantern ceremony and Nancy Jean Heck served as chairman for the all-school song contest for the May Day festivities, drawing the eventful year to a wistful, but memorable close.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

Basking in their new-found superiority as freshmen counsellors, the sophomores joined forces in initiating the new comers into campus life . . . Joyce Truckenbrod worked out the punishment for blacklist offenders of the new students . . . Then Sophomore Sallies moved into the squeamish week of rushing and upperclass societies' initiations . . . Jeane Hagen supervised weekly coffees in the lounge . . . Margaret Flynn planned activities for their sister class on its recognition day . . . Ruth Riley led a serenade to climax the occasion for the seniors . . . At the sophomore booth at the Bazaar, Marcia Melvin served as chairman . . . The project was directed by Betty Davis and the writers were Harriet Scheidker and Carol Smith . . . Later in the spring the class joined with Elizabeth Lugg to make the class dance successful . . . The entire class looked longingly one last time at its dorm, Harker, and began plans for the fall return when they would be in the upper half of their college years under the yellow and the blue . . .

Upper left . . . Freshmen and Sophs ready for a ride up in our overworked and underpaid Harker elevator.

Upper right . . . B. J. astride a masterpiece of snow sculpture and surrounded by Pat, Carla and Frannie.

Standing—Eleanor Adams, S.G.A. representative; Gretchen Phillips, S.G.A. representative; Mary Ellen Boultinghouse, Y. W. representative; Mary Council, R.A. representative.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

Beginning their collective college life with green ribbons about their necks, the freshmen stepped bravely forward into the first quarter of their time here at Mac . . . After the fearful black list had faded into the past, Yvonne Schroder planned Thanksgiving decorations for the dining hall and prepared them as her athletic classmates joined the juniors in the Navy team, winning the traditional hockey game . . . Madronna Green and her committee supervised Bazaar preparations . . . after spring vacation, three chairmen plotted the "Gay Nineties" project. The trio consisted of Mary Ellen Boultinghouse, Marinell Hale, and Mary Jane Lonergan . . . Assisting in the honor line at the Junior Prom, Sally Freshmen looked hopefully to April 27 and her own class dance with Phyllis Jean Griffen as chairman . . . Then she closed her eyes and dreamed of the fall and her turn as a sophomore, remembering always the twinge of something she could not define in words—the twinge she suffered as her tiny, grimy, frayed ribbon was lapped up in the autumn flame as Sally cleared her throat and began, "Hands throw in our ribbons green . . . hearts will ne'er forget this scene . . . CONLEE - KENT CUP

To Merle Hansen went the Conlee-Kent Cup this year, with the whole-hearted approval of all who know and admire her as the junior who, in her sophomore year, best exemplified the highest ideals of MacMurray — "Knowledge, Faith, and Service." Merle's popularity was predicted in her freshman year when she was elected treasurer of Phi Tau Epsilon. Her many sophomore activities include serving as class secretary and as program chairman of Y.W. Theta Sigma was proud to claim her. This year, in addition to being Wisconsin Club vice-president and swimming in her third water-show, Merle has made an outstanding contribution to the college as editor of the 1946 Illiwoco.

One of the most highly respected traditions of MacMurray is the ceremonial selection of Cap and Gown members on the steps of Old Main Hall after Last Chapel in May. At this ceremony in 1945, the four retiring seniors bestowed the rose of friendship, the sisterly kiss, and the mortar board of honor upon Virginia Bliss, Beatrice Person, Rosanna Shanks, Betty Stanford, and Dawn Bishop Troup. Ginny Bliss, S. G. A. president-elect, had gained her administrative experience by leading her sophomore class. Bea Person, who held the position of S. G. A. treasurer and membership in Macquatics, was also Junior Prom Princess of her class. Rosanna Shanks, Illiwooco editor, was looking forward to the responsibilities of the 1945-46 judicial director. Betty Stanford, Conlee-Kent Cup winner, had to her credit the presidencies of her freshman class and of I. R. C., and in her junior year had been installed as newly-elected Y. W. president. Dawn Bishop Troup, noted on MacMurray campus for her outstanding College Theater work, belonged to Players Guild and also became a prominent member of National Collegiate Players.

BELLES LETTRES SOCIETY

GLORIA UNDERWOOD, President

The oldest society on campus, B. L. was founded in 1851 by a group of seven girls in an heroic effort to catch up with the organizations at Illinois College. Meetings originally consisted of reading papers, followed by criticism and discussion of the subject at hand. Now, in 1946, the activities have changed as much as has the college itself. Rush week, with the theme of "School Daze," was done up in "little red school-house" fashion, climaxed with a graduation dinner dance under the tutelage of co-captains Margaret Dennis Johnson and Ruth Chin. At a cabin party in October, the pledges proved their worth in the presentation of a sparkling program. Christmas Bazaar chairmen Elizabeth Mumford and Betty Rogers supervised the selling of MacMurray ash trays and jot pads. The finishing touches were put on a semester of delightful work and play with the Christmas party. The alumnae coffee was held in the spring, and the year's activities were concluded with an outstanding event, the alumnae banquet.

LAMBDA ALPHA MU

In 1912 Dr. Harker felt the need for two more societies, and thus, under the guidance of old Phi Nu, this new society came into being in October, 1912, to take its permanent place on our campus. This year, rush week was as much fun as a three-ring circus with Lambda's carnival in the circus atmosphere of the Jane Hall smoker. The pledges honored the actives at a party in November. One of Lambda's proud achievements is the Girl Scout Troop which it sponsors in Jacksonville, with Carolyn Francis as scout leader. In November Lambda entertained the entire troop at a party. Second semester witnessed the alumnae coffee in February and the spring banquet in May. In like manner through the years Lambda Alpha Mu Society has proven its founding well worthwhile.

BETTY LYDERS, President

Articles of the constitution of the second oldest society on campus, established in 1853, stated the aim of the association as that of cultivating a correct style of composition, improving literary taste, and moulding "perfect social and moral characters." Today the purpose is to increase feelings of interest, honor, and good fellowship among its members and in the college. This program was launched in the fall by rush captains Beatrice Person and Barbara Flury in the spirit of the "Gay Nineties." Shortly thereafter, pledge sisters were put through their paces. Christmas Bazaar chairman, Rosemary Schlintz, supervised the dyeing and selling of lollipop lingerie. The traditional alumnae coffee was planned by Marjorie Crowl second semester. These and other group activities filled that special niche in the lives of its members.

First row seated—Vaught, Jacobi, Lemon, Stanford.

THETA SIGMA SOCIETY

Theta Sigma Society was established in 1912 as Dr. Harker saw the desirability of having two more societies. The name was chosen by the dean and Dr. Harker, and with the sisterly aid of Belles Lettres Society, its ten charter members laid the foundation for this group. This year's rush captains, Pat Lanahan and Nancy Heck, demonstrated the artistic talents of Theta's members with a gay studio party in the art studio, carrying out the theme "Distraction." Christmas time brought a party and, of course, the Bazaar, where Theta sold lucite boxes, bulletin boards, and cigarette lighters. Monthly Sunday morning breakfasts at the Dunlap, cabin parties, table parties, and serenades were among the activities that made Theta worthy of its song "Remember."

INTER - SOCIETY COUNCIL

For the coordination and regulation of the activities and purposes of the four upperclass societies, the Inter-Society Council has this year assumed an important position on campus. The Council itself is composed of the president and vice-president of each society and is augmented and assisted by a committee of two members from each of the four societies. Dean Roma N. Hawkins acts as advisor. In fulfillment of its purpose of bringing together these four groups in a bond of fellowship, the Inter-Society sponsored a breakfast, a dance—"On the Town"—and a party and picnic for the society members. Directing the 1945-46 activities were Betsy Otey, Belles Lettres, president, and Phyllis Ann Smith, Lambda Alpha Mu, secretary.

Seated—Philna Jacobi, Bets Lyders, Phyllis Smith, Betsy Otey, Margarite Zickos, Gloria Underwood.

Standing—Christine Callahan, Ruth Bailin.

ALPHA KAPPA SIGMA

Alpha Kappa Sigma started out the year by electing Shirley Smith, president; Ann Roberts, vice-president; Winn Walker, secretary; Gretchen Phillips, treasurer; Dorothy Goebel, recorder; and Mary Louise Baldwin, Inter-Society representative. The group sold piggy banks at the Christmas Bazaar. "Let It Burn," directed by Lucia Jones was presented for the society play contest. Shirley Smith and Emmy Jo Martini received individual awards for their acting in this play. A formal coffee was held early in the spring, and the year's activities came to a close with an informal spring picnic. Jeanette Chapman was the junior sponsor for Alpha Kap's activities this year.

NORMA MILLER, Sponsor
HELEN WINTERS, President

Last fall Norma Miller guided Delta Theta Nu members in electing Helen Winters, president; Jeanne Wilkins, vice-president; Dorothy Hoffman, secretary; Mary Jane Lonergan, treasurer; and Virginia Davisson, Inter-Society representative. December 2 the group attended church in a body. December also brought an outing at the P. E. cabin. Delta Theta Nus sold table decorations and match covers at the Y.W.-A.C.E. Christmas Bazaar. "Op Of Me Thumb," directed by Charlotte Wetteroth, won honorable mention for the society. Mary Ellen Boultinghouse, Marinell Hale, and Marilyn Fuller received acting awards. The faculty were guests of the group at a formal coffee held in March. An enjoyable year came to a close with a picnic.

EPSILON KAPPA PHI

Mary Lee Pierce led Epsilon Kappa Phi in a successful year with the guidance of Marie Thiel, sponsor. Other officers were Sally Schaefer, vice-president; Marcia Weeks, secretary; Joan Wegge, treasurer; Mary Ann Lessel, recorder; and Dorothy Garner, Inter-Society representative. Members enjoyed a Thanksgiving theater party after their November meeting. At the Christmas Bazaar the group sold custom-made walnut letter holders. "Where the Buffalo Roam," directed by Jane Shannon, was Epsilon Kappa Phi's entry in the play contest. Mary Ann Lessel received a dramatic award. The faculty were honored by the group in January with a formal coffee. A spring picnic brought to a close the year's activities.

KAPPA SIGMA THETA

MARION COOPER, President
 JERRY LESSEL, Sponsor

Kappa Sigma Theta ushered in a new year by electing Marian Cooper, president; Gretchen Lewis, vice-president; Isabelle Ferrell, secretary; Valera Berry, treasurer; and Norma Rusher, Inter-Society representative. The society's formal initiation and installation followed table parties in the dining hall. The group sold pixie glasses cases at the annual Christmas Bazaar. "Husband For Breakfast," a provincial comedy, was Kappa Sig's contribution to the play contest. Josephine directed the production. Spring brought the formal coffee for the faculty, and a cabin party with Alpha Kappa Sigma. A picnic ended a successful year's activities. Geraldine Lessel was junior sponsor.

PHI KAPPA DELTA

Phi Kappa Delta won the coveted cup for the best one-act play presentation. "New School of Wives," a hilarious take-off on finishing schools was directed by Nancy Elliot. Barbara Jane Taylor and Eleanor Adams were given acting awards for their portrayals of the father and mother. The society members enjoyed a spring cabin party, and entertained the faculty at a formal coffee. Pat Vine, president, working with Nancy Willard, junior sponsor, led the year's activities. Other officers were Mary Lou Floro, vice-president; Barbara Emke, secretary; Eleanor Jones, treasurer; and Phyllis Griffen, Inter-Society representative.

PHI TAU EPSILON

JOYCE O'LEARY, President

PAULINE SCHAEFER, Sponsor

Under the sponsorship of Pauline Schaefer, Phi Tau members elected Joyce O'Leary, president; Kay Bonde, vice-president; Mary Ann Sohn, secretary; Margaret Smith, treasurer; Jacqueline Olsby, recorder; and Jane Hampton, Inter-Society representative. Formal table parties held in October preceded installation of officers and initiation of members. The group sold table party sets and Christmas wreaths at the Y.W.-A.C.E. Bazaar. On December 7, Phi Tau Epsilon held a formal coffee with the faculty as their guests. The members presented "Spreading the News," directed by Pauline Schaefer, at the contest, and Peggy Coleman received an acting award. Highlight of the spring was a weekend at the P.E. cabin, and a picnic ended the year.

STUDENT ASSOCIATION

In practice as well as in theory, every girl on campus is a part of Student Government, and it has been the main aim of the S.G.A. this year to make her feel this membership. Our present form of Student Government was begun in 1916 and stemmed from a temporary form of Student House Government. Since that time constant effort has been made to increase the spirit of cooperation among the major organizations on the MacMurray campus. Among the most significant activities this year have been the "Indian Summer" dance, continuation of an ushering committee, change in the student bank hours to meet student needs, bulletin boards for campus notices, and the composition of a letter to President Truman advocating the sharing of atomic energy. President Virginia Bliss was assisted by Vice-president Vivian Sackrisson, Judicial Director Rosanna Shanks, Student Orientation Chairman Maurine Jackson, Secretary Barbara Anne Taylor, Treasurer Marijane Purvis, with Mary Dexheimer and Betty Jane Harper acting as presidents of Main and Harker respectively, Barbara Brown as cottage representative, and Gretchen Phillips and Eleanor Adams representing the freshmen.

Seated—B. J. Harper, Barbara Taylor, Vivian Sackrisson, Virginia Bliss, Rosanna Shanks, Barbara Brown.
Standing—Marijane Purvis, Mary Dexheimer, Gretchen Phillips, Eleanor Adams.

Seated—Dorothy Armitage, Patricia Hughes, Betty Stanford, Barbara Day.
Standing—Virginia Hinrichsen, Emmy Lou Jenkins, Charlotte Wetteroth, Margaret Francisco, Mary Ellen Boultinghouse, Irma Rinker.

Y. W. C. A.

With President Betty Stanford as a capable and enthusiastic executive, MacMurray's Y.W.C.A. again carried out its program of inspirational, charitable, and social activities. The Y.W. cooperated with the denominational groups by introducing new students to their respective churches in Jacksonville, and also planned the programs for Armistice Day, World Day of Prayer, and Lent. This year saw a get-acquainted costume party for new students in September and a party for incoming students second semester. At Thanksgiving time the annual tea dance was held in the social room; among the Christmas activities were the Y.W.-A.C.E. Bazaar and arranging for the traditional Christmas candles; while St. Valentine inspired Heart Sister Week. Committees were formed to distribute Thanksgiving baskets, Christmas gifts to needy children, and to give an Easter party for blind children. Work was also done at the Child Welfare headquarters and the Well Baby Clinic in Jacksonville. The year's work was brought to an appropriate close with the annual retreat at the cabin for this year's cabinet and the newly-elected 1946-47 cabinet. Patricia Hughes, vice-president; Virginia Hinrichsen, secretary; and Dorothy Armitage, treasurer, complete the roster of officers for this year.

RED CROSS AND VICTORY COUNCIL

In its first peace-time year on campus, the Red Cross unit had the double task of helping veterans as well as men still in active service. Under the direction of Carol Roy, the unit accomplished several commendable goals in addition to its regular knitting and service as Nurses' Aides and chapter office assistants. The year was climaxed with the campus-wide membership drive in March.

Chairman Rose Mary Schlintz directed the single but vital activity of the Victory Council—the weekly sale of victory stamps in each dormitory. Stamps and bonds were also sold by the Council at the Y.W.-A.C.E. Bazaar.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

"Tune in again tomorrow night at 5 P.M. to hear the news of the world"—are familiar words made possible through the cooperation of WMAC and IRC's Musabelle Coons. IRC, subsidized by the Carnegie Institute, includes only upperclassmen. Weekly news round-ups, held throughout the year with both student and faculty speakers, drew the interest of the student body. On March 8, 1945, Dorothy Stonecipher, president, officiated as vice-president of the Midwestern Conference at Oshkosh, Wisconsin. Other representatives to the conference were Barbara Taylor, Virginia Vaught, Rosanna Shanks, and Betsy Collins. Aiding the president this year were Vice-president Rosemary Niemann and Secretary-Treasurer Betsy Collins, with Dr. Walter B. Hendrickson as advisor.

First row seated—Struckmeyer, Taylor, Layman, King.

Second row seated—Corrao, Engeswick, M. Hughes, Stonecipher, Niemann, Collins, Griffith, Pimlott.

Third row—Schaeffer, Askew, Vasconcellos, Lang, Hall, Black, Shanks, Francisco, Callahan, Batts, Frost, Voss.

Fourth row—Mihara, McMillan, Morgan, Rogers.

A. C. E.

The MacMurray College A. C. E. is one of the eight Illinois branches of the National Association for Childhood Education. The majority of its members are kindergarten-primary majors; however, the membership is open to anyone interested. The organization, under the leadership of Virginia Smith, president; Frances Lang, secretary; and Barbara Day, treasurer, had a successful year. Eight members represented the group at the state convention in the fall. The club sponsored the annual Christmas Bazaar in cooperation with the Y. W. C. A. Highlights of the year's meetings were the following speakers: Miss Milligan, instructor of crippled children; Miss Grace Fitch, principal of Franklin School; and Dr. H. M. Halverson. In February a demonstration was given by blind children, and on April 12 the kindergarten program was presented. The year's activities were climaxed by the senior breakfast at the home of Miss Gwendolyn Addenbrooke, the A. C. E. adviser.

First row seated—Armitage, Hoare, Perry, Struckmeyer, Frye, V. Smith, Day, Lang, Coleman, March, Wells.

"On Wisconsin, On Wisconsin, Grand Old Badger State." That's the song echoed throughout the campus when the Wisconsin Club meets. It was organized last fall under the direction of Mrs. A. C. Nickell, college representative from Wisconsin, and has the honor of being the one existing state club on campus. Led by their president, Ruth Henika, the forty-eight girls from Wisconsin have enjoyed table parties together and have met for luncheons in Milwaukee during vacations. The vice-president for this year has been Merle Hansen, and Carol Smith has acted as secretary.

TIRONIAN CLUB

Tironian's program for the year opened with the coffee at which new business administration majors and minors were welcomed into membership and acquainted with the club's two-fold purpose—to promote interest in the business world and to awaken a social spirit among its members. Other events of the year included the annual formal banquet, a cabin party, an observation trip to St. Louis, and the monthly meetings with guest speakers, which were sponsored by Mr. Robert L. Hitch. The Tironian Scholarship Cup is presented each semester to the freshman attaining the highest grades in the department. This year's president has been Imogene Thompson; vice-president, Christine Callahan; secretary, Mary Nutt; and treasurer, Delores Cripe.

First row seated—Nighswander, Murphy, Bowers, Miss Giddings, Valentine, Saul, Toupal, Keilmann, Hindes.

Fourth row—F. Ota, Abbott, Kraemer, Thiel, Brumer, Hagen, Berglund.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

Home Economics majors and minors met throughout the year with Professor Mate Giddings to enhance their common interest and to further congeniality and friendship. At their monthly meetings the members included on the program off-campus speakers, a sterling silver demonstration, a baked bean supper, and a Christmas party at which a basket of food and clothes were given to a needy family. At the Bazaar the club sponsored a food booth under the direction of Marie Brumer and Betty Rowden. A picnic was held April 8. Home Ec Club officers for the year were Jeanne Valentine, president; Ruth Bowers, vice-president; Betty Saul, secretary; and Marilyn Toupal, treasurer.

JACKSONVILLE CLUB

The Town Girls opened the year with a picnic for their freshmen at the P. E. cabin. In addition to their regular meetings and pot luck suppers, the club attended the Illinois-Iowa football game in November, entertained at a Christmas party, and arranged the Bunny Hop, April 13, under the co-chairmanship of Margaret Lonergan and Jean Wilkinson. With Professor Elsa Kimball as advisor, the Jacksonville Club was led by Charlotte Taylor, president; Kay Baker, vice-president; Betty Rogers, secretary; Margaret Lonergan, treasurer; Jean Vasconcellos, program chairman; and Barbara Hopper, R. A. representative.

First row seated—Green, Spink, DeFrates, Potter, C. Craver.

The ILLI

Work and worry forgotten and pleasure remembered, the '46 Illiwo staff intrusts to you the fruits of its labor—a leaf in the history of a memorable century. Mr. Harold E. Gibson and Mrs. Roma Hawkins served as advisors for the publication. Merle Hansen, editor-in-chief; Charlene Hext, assistant editor; Patricia McMillan, literary editor; Bettie Johann, copy editor; Barbara Gerhart, index editor; Shirley Verstegen, sports editor; Alberta Krebs, art editor; Barbara Flury, society editor; Barbara Cross, photographer; and Betty Jones, Phyllis Hamer, and Vera Dille, staff assistants, composed the editorial staff. Lois Felthoven, Freda Sanders, Pauline Schaefer, Virginia Hinrichsen, Geraldine Lessel, and Nancy Heck assisted in the preparation of the copy.

WOCO 1946

Keepers of the budget, the Illiwoco business staff held ambitious editors within financial limits. Student and faculty subscriptions, advertising sold to local merchants, and receipts from campus organizations provided income for the book. Martha Spink, business manager, headed the staff, assisted by Margaret Lonergan. Sue Ward Adrianse and Norma Miller, advertising manager and assistant; and Jean Waldvogel, circulation manager, completed the staff.

THE 1946

Gaining journalistic experience through practical application is the opportunity offered to the fifty-two members of the Greetings staff. The weekly publication was edited by Roberta Claffy first semester, and Patricia Lanahan second semester.

One of the outstanding events of the year was the Illinois Collegiate Press Association Convention held on campus November 3. At this fall advisory meeting Roberta Claffy was elected president of the I. C. P. A. and Maurine Jackson, feature editor of the paper, was elected secretary.

Awards from the National Scholastic Press Association were received for last year's paper, and the Greetings was rated All-American. The paper also won the distinction of being the only four year women's college to receive this top rating.

GREETINGS

Second semester a Centennial supplement was added to the paper to give further publicity to the celebration which will take place this fall. Social events of the year included the sponsorship of an all-school dance, the "Snow Swirl," on December 8, and a breakfast at the Dunlap for staff members.

Solving the financial problems of the Greetings is the interest of the business staff managed by Martha Hughes and Joann Engeswick for the first and second semesters respectively. Activities of the staff include selling subscriptions and advertising space, campus distribution of the paper, and the exchange with other colleges. Joann Engeswick directed the advertising first semester followed by Jane Karraker second semester. Circulation managers were Bettie Johann and Elizabeth Lugg. Joane Van Bergen and Jo Ann Pospichal were in charge of the exchange service.

SCRIBBLERS CLUB

"... To smear ink upon my fingers and write poems to the sky..." That is the oath which each member of Scribblers Club takes upon her acceptance as a member of that honorary group. Devoted to creative writing of all types, Scribblers consists of members elected each semester by tryouts. The events of the club were sponsored by Miss Dorothy Burrows, club adviser. The club president for the year was Freda Jane Sanders; Jane Shannon served as vice-president. Elaine Nichols was secretary-treasurer for the first semester and Doris Jean Grodeon held that office later in the year. An important part of the club program revolved about the frequent manuscript meetings. This year's calendar included the sale of the traditional Christmas cards, designed and composed by Doris Jean Grodeon. Marion Collins was sales chairman and Patricia Lanahan supervised sales at the Y.W.-A.C.E. Bazaar booth. Co-chairmen Freda Jane Sanders and Cynthia Hanna directed the annual open meeting March 25. The year's issue of INKSPIRATIONS was edited by Jane Shannon with Kay Baker directing sales activities. Two cabin parties were held during the year. The club's calendar concluded with a party this spring at "Wag's" for all the members.

THE LITTLE THEATRE

THE THEATRE

The Little Theatre is separated from the campus somewhat in distance; but the activities which it sponsors are an integral part of MacMurray life. Besides the usual plays and speech recitals, the theatre this year inaugurated radio station WMAC—a campus station operated by and for the college students. The spirit of cooperation which theatre workers display well exemplifies the spirit which is MacMurray.

THE ART DEPARTMENT

The significant functions of MacMurray's Art Department have been demonstrated throughout the year by the presentation in the library of circulating exhibits and senior work exhibits. Fifth floor Music Hall studio is the scene of the campus artistic pursuits as guided by Miss Ruth Gay and Mrs. Edna Herr. The pictures on this page represent a criticism group and the exhibit selection committee composed of Alberta Krebsbs, chairman, and Betty Stanford, Merle Hansen, Doris Jean Grodeon, and Yvonne Schroder.

N. C. P. AND MACMURRAY PLAYERS

Overtures, a play presented by National Collegiate Players for the Theatre opening in October, began the dramatic activity on campus. Productions following during the year were Career Angel, Schubert Alley, Eager Heart, and The World We Live In. This year, a forecast of future successful season was seen in the extensive development in the physical plant, of which Theatre enthusiasts are particularly proud.

National Collegiate Players acted as sponsor for a sister dramatic organization—MacMurray Players. The two organizations worked and played together on all the theatre productions. Carolyn Francis served as president of N. C. P., and Josephine Cody as president of MacMurray Players.

BAND

The MacMurray College Band, under the direction of Mr. Henry Busche, offers a splendid opportunity for student musicians to develop their talent. Maintaining full concert-band instrumentation, the group is able to cover the entire range of band literature. Besides playing for campus sings, pep rallies, and athletic events, the band also arranges formal out-of-town concerts. The annual Dad's Day concert crowns the year's achievements, and the busy season is brought to a close with the Commencement Day concert. In addition to the twice weekly band rehearsals, several ensembles devote time to further technical training. Phyllis McClure is president of the organization and Doris Jean Grodeon is business manager.

CHOIR

This year the MacMurray choir boasted a membership of thirty-one students from all four classes. In addition to providing sacred music for weekly chapel, the group sang for the Founders' and Thanksgiving days banquets, Club 13, and Commencement, and presented the Christmas and Easter vesper services in conjunction with Madrigal Club. The annual spring concert was given March 31 in Music Hall. Miss Martha Johnson and Mr. Henry Busche directed the choir first and second semesters respectively. First semester officers are Jeanne Rowenhorst, president; Beverly Black, secretary; Harriet Scheidker and Thyra Davis, librarians. Harriet Scheidker presided second semester, with Cecily Spaulding as secretary.

MADRIGAL

One of MacMurray's most popular musical organizations, Madrigal Club has this year designated itself as an all-college group. Under the direction of Miss Lyeva Plunkett, the club participated with the choir in the Christmas and Easter vespers, and contributed to the antiphonal effect of several numbers at the Christmas service. Madrigal also cooperated with the band for the Dad's Day concert. Paula Coonen served as president; Barbara McCord, secretary-treasurer; and Doris Runyan and Bettie Hirschberg, librarians.

R. A. BOARD

The R.A. Board, headed by Mary Huntoon, president, plans and coordinates the recreation activities on campus. The board is composed of the officers of the association, class and town girls' representatives, and the adviser, Miss Elizabeth Rearick. The R.A. promotes all such activities, furnishing equipment and instruction for all. Girls receive credit for activities and awards are given those who complete a certain number of hours. Play days with other colleges, hayrides, picnics, open houses, and fun nights have all appeared on the crowded calendar of the R.A. Board of '45 and '46.

Seated—Hopper, Ingram, Miss Rearick, Huntoon, Harper, Murfey.
Standing—Council, Davis, Jacobi, Smith, Truckenbrod, Zickos.

R. A. COUNCIL

The R.A. Council is under the R.A. Board and is headed by the R.A. vice-president, Philna Jacobi. Composed of all the sports managers, the Council works not only to coordinate the various forms of recreation but also to present a season of fun and enjoyment for everyone on campus.

1946 Winner of

THE ELIZABETH REARICK TROPHY

Virginia Smith was the proud recipient of the Elizabeth Rearick Trophy this year. The trophy was first presented in honors chapel the spring of 1945. It is given each year to the senior girl who has had an active interest and participation in R.A. and has shown good sportsmanship throughout her four years at MacMurray. "Ginny" was R.A. representative her junior year, served as R.A. secretary this year, participated in R.A. activities, and has exhibited excellent sportsmanship.

P. E. CLUB

With Helen Huston as president, the Physical Education Club began the year with the initiation of new members at the P.E. cabin in October. November 17th brought the anxiously awaited annual Club 13 under the direction of Phyllis Metz. The club is composed of all students majoring or minoring in the field of physical education, and its purpose is to promote better individual health and to foster among the students a greater interest in clean living and worthy use of time. Other officers of the year were Joan Daker, vice-president; Winifred Shultz, secretary; and Phyllis Metz, treasurer.

 Standing—C. Hansen, Walker, Jacobi, Truckenbrod, Hohmann, Harper, Huston.
 Absent—Huntoon.*

This year's hockey season was managed very capably by Helen Huston and advised by Miss Elisabeth Meyer. The traditional Army-Navy game played on Thanksgiving Day was as exciting as ever. The Navy, comprised of juniors and freshmen, won over the Army team of seniors and sophomores with the close score of 1-0. Dr. Elizabeth Rearick and Miss Elisabeth Meyer acted as referees for this game. From these two teams the Varsity was chosen, and the hockey season closed with memories of fun, skillful playing and sportsmanship.

Heck, N. Lauer, Walker, Verstegen, Newell, Cantrell, Daker, Ingram, Hansen, Shafer.

VARSITY

Swish . . . and another basketball season started in Hardtner Gym. The first important event of the season was the interclass tourney which was won this year by the seniors. From these teams were chosen the Army—seniors and sophs, and the Navy—juniors and frosh teams which clash at the traditional Army-Navy game, won by a large margin this year by the Army. At the end of the season the members of the varsity were announced at table parties in McClelland Hall. The season was very well organized by Martha Hughes, manager, and Miss Elisabeth Meyer acted as adviser.

Left to right—Huston, N. Lauer, Daker, Huntoon, Hughes, Newell, Walker, Rinker, Clements, Peterson, Jacobi, Truckenbrod.

First row—Greene, Jackson, Harper, Ruck, Price, Rutledge, Lemon, LaBontie.
Second row—Booth, Barkley, Hohmann, Gumm, Smith, Jones, Verstegen, Person, Uhl.
Third row—Nelson, Shanks, Dexheimer, Schultz, Metz, Weller, Paton, Huntoon, Colquhoun, Scammon, Specht, Smith, Cooley, Miss Spencer.

MACQUATICS CLUB

One of the younger clubs on campus but one of the more active is the Macquatics Club which was organized in the spring of 1942. The purpose of the club is to promote the interest of swimming activities on campus. The Macquatics swimmers are chosen at tryouts in the fall where active members judge the candidates according to their ability, prospects of improvement and their interest in swimming. Also new members are admitted in the spring on the basis of their work in the water show. The first important event is the Interclass Swim Meet which was held December 1 this year. The title was captured by the sophomores. The next event, and the biggest of each year, is the Dad's Day Water Show held in the spring. The 1946 show, "Swimphony," was under the direction of Nancy Nelson. The club was guided by Phyllis Metz, president; Winifred Shultz, vice-president; Lou Anne Shanks, secretary; Mary Dexheimer, treasurer; Jayne Weller, publicity chairman; and Miss Carrie Spencer, the adviser.

First row—Denny, Husar, David, Goebel, Vine, Waldvogel, Bacher.

Second row—Snyder, Schneider, Changnon, Rowden, Gher, J. Collins, Grodeon.

Third row—Lemon, Henika, Schultz, Gumm, Pinckney, Rothwell, Booth, Fischer, Kleymeyer, Rippel.

RIDING CLUB

A selected group of student riders, headed this year by President Martha Kleymeyer, comprises the membership of the MacMurray Riding Club. Active in promoting interest in riding on campus, the club also provides an opportunity for the more experienced riders to learn some of the advanced technique of the art.

First and second teams of eight members were chosen from the group to engage in meets with each other, while other members of the club organized a drill team. Returning with the relaxation of wartime restrictions were the inter-school meets with other college teams. The Ghymkhana Show in the spring was open to all riders, and all enrolled in riding classes were eligible for the annual May Day Show.

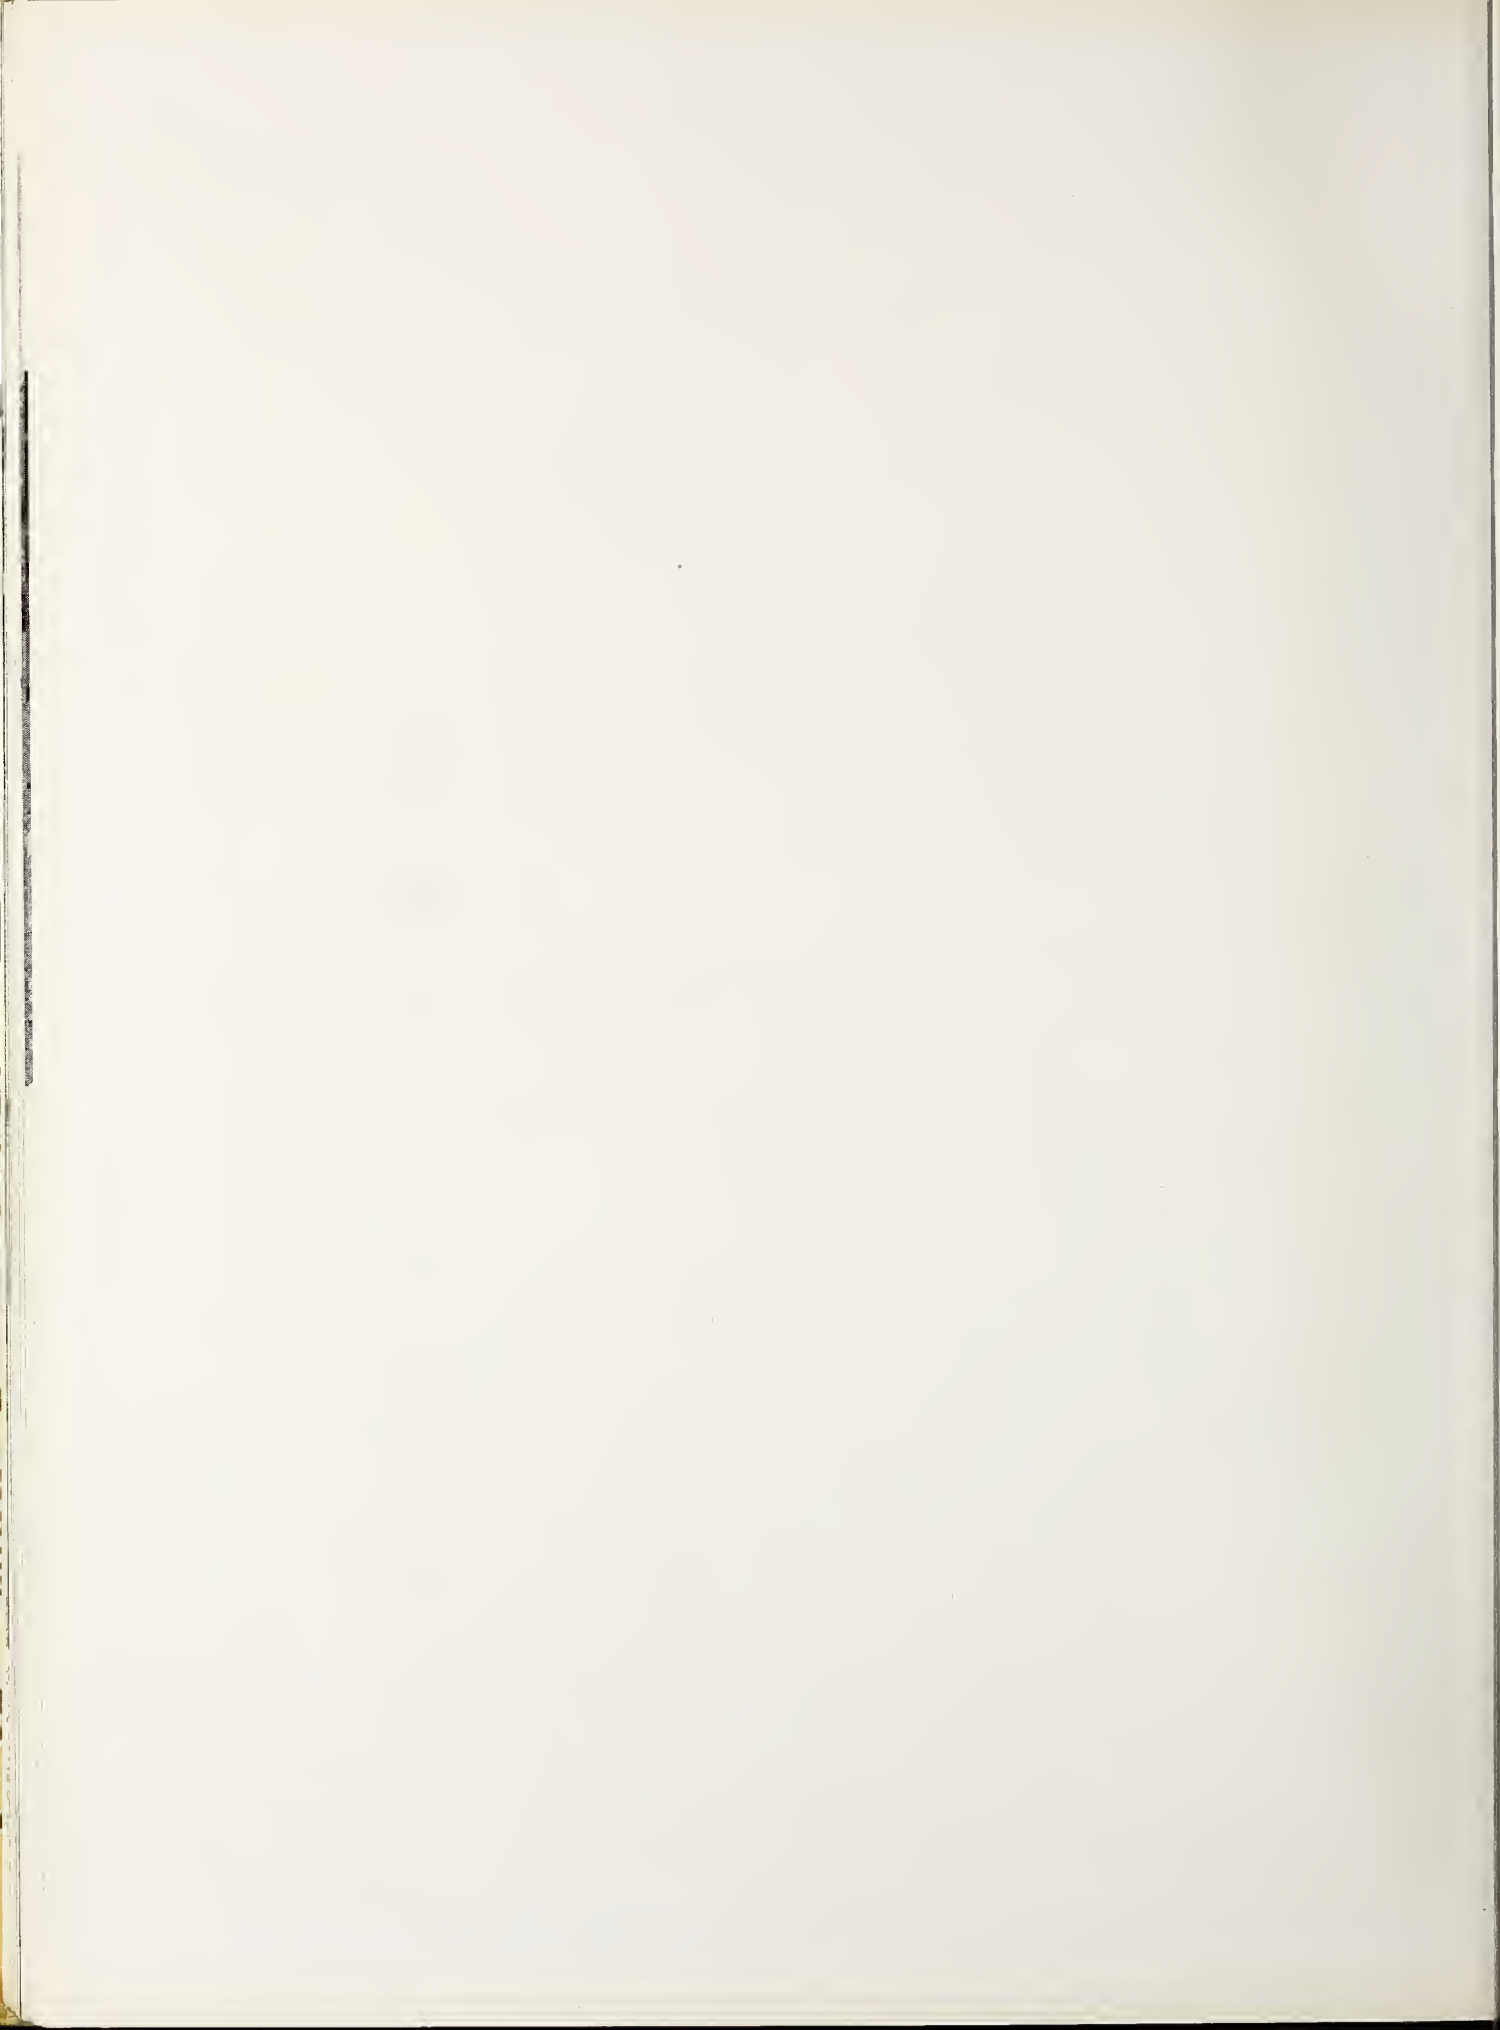

First team members were Martha David, Ruth Henika, Martha Kleymeyer, Mary Lemon, Marilyn Rippel, Betty Rowden, Winifred Shultz, and Velma Snyder. The second team included Shirley Bacher, Vivian Changnon, Jean Collins, Nova Ann Gher, Dorothy Goebel, Helen Huston, Anne Lea Plotz, and Jean Waldvogel. Other officers of the club were Mary Lemon, vice-president; Ruth Henika, secretary-treasurer; and Velma Snyder, team manager. Miss Doris Greenwalt serves as adviser.
